tarnished earth

an exhibition of devastating power

NATIONAL WATERFRONT MUSEUM, SWANSEA

8th – 26th OCTOBER 2011

A dramatic open air gallery of photographs by Jiri Rezac telling the story of one of the world's biggest ecological disasters: the extraction of oil from tar sands below Canada's magnificent Boreal Forest.

This outdoor exhibition is illuminated in the evenings, and open for viewing at any time.

Two FREE films linked to issues raised by the exhibition will also be shown:

Dirty Oil 5.30pm, Sunday 16th October, National Waterfront Museum
A documentary that takes a behind-the-scenes look at the tar sands industry.

Gasland 7pm, Tuesday 18th October, National Waterfront Museum
A multi-award winning film about the impact of natural gas drilling in the USA and the controversial method known as fracking. Followed by a short open discussion.
